Outcomes:

Accurate coding can be a powerful tool that will make your practice work harder for you. Most practices understand basic coding and billing procedures, however, denials and delays are expected and occur frequently. These balances either inflate the accounts receivable or are written off. It is possible to increase reimbursement while staying in compliance with the coding rules. Practices that incorporate these principles ensure that every service and procedure is coded to the optimal level and every claim submitted in a manner that makes delays and denials rare. By understanding the rules involved in coding, documentation, audits and claims processing, your practice can increase revenue and reduce financial liability. The objective of this practical workshop is to assist the practitioner and his / her staff in ensuring complete and comprehensive documentation and coding of all services rendered. We will help you better understand the claims process from the medical audits perspective and how denials and delays can be avoided.
